ARCHBISHOP EMERITUS THOMAS CARDINAL COLLINS

You might say that Archbishop Emeritus Thomas Cardinal Collins' future was ordained.

His childhood home was next door to the church where he served morning Mass. His high school English teacher, Father Newstead, inspired him to the priesthood. Father Collins received Holy Orders in 1973, and studied Scripture and the Book of Revelation in Rome. He was appointed Bishop of St. Paul, then Archbishop of Edmonton. In 2012, Pope Benedict XVI elevated the then Archbishop of Toronto to the College of Cardinals.

He's participated in Synods on the Eucharist and Middle East, served as an Apostolic Visitor in Ireland and a Delegate of the Congregation of the Doctrine of the Faith.
